WPO announces its 1st Corporate Partner, the Chinese Labthink

The new Partnership category intends to connect brand owners, suppliers and all other packaging related industries to the global packaging community

April 2019 – Labthink Instruments Co. (www.labthinkinternational.com) is the 1st Corporate Partner of WPO (World Packaging Organisation – www.worldpackaging.org). The Chinese company, a worldwide-recognized provider of testing instruments and testing services for the packaging industry, is the first in the world in being part of the unique WPO Corporate Partnership program. “This is a huge honor to WPO and shows the trust that companies like Labthink sees in WPO in becoming part of this international network and, through WPO support, build a common language on packaging innovation, sustainability and technology”, states WPO President, Pierre Pienaar.

And adds: “And we start this new Corporate Partner category with a company like Labthink that is global and provides professional quality control solutions for packaging materials and products”. Labthinks’ core businesses includes the R&D of laboratory testing instruments, packaging testing and test data processing services. The company is dedicated to providing integrated professional quality control solutions for packaging manufacturers, food and beverage producers, medical and pharmaceutical companies, and daily chemical and printing industries. One of their key differences is the online product demonstration platform, in which they exhibit testing instruments through videos, pictures and documents.

As a WPO Corporate Partner, Labthink will benefit from:

- the strong and wide global networking;
- attending WPO Working Groups Day in Education, Sustainability and Marketing twice a year;
- using WPO Corporate Partners logo on all companies’ communication tools;
- submitting news to the four editions of WPO News, WPO official electronic newsletter;
